

Abstract

In a synchronous hierarchic network having multi-level tandem connection monitoring, all of the fields containing tandem connection monitoring information associated with trail terminations at a subject network element are processed in parallel at the subject network element. The network element extracts the tandem connection monitoring information from received signals independently for each of the tandem connection monitoring terminations occurring at the network element.

09987788.111601